NCMDAO - 2025

As engineering systems grow in complexity, the integration of multiple physics and disciplines has become not only possible - but essential. With deeper understanding of system-level physics and the rise of powerful computational technologies, Multidisciplinary Design, Analysis, and Optimization (MDAO) empowers researchers and designers to create solutions that are efficient, accurate, reliable, and robust. The National Conference on Multidisciplinary Design, Analysis, and Optimization serves as a platform for academia and industry to converge, exchange insights, and advance the frontiers of multidisciplinary optimization.

The 8th National Conference on Multidisciplinary Design, Analysis, and Optimization follows seven national conferences and one international conference on the MDAO theme held since 2018. This conference is jointly organized by M. S. Ramaiah University of Applied Sciences (MSRUAS), Indian Institute of Science (IISc), CSIR-National Aerospace Laboratories (NAL) and Design Division of The Aeronautical Society of India (AeSI). This conference brings together the MDAO community from academia, industry, and government laboratories to provide a platform for masterclass lectures, invited talks, paper and poster presentations, and panel discussions on contemporary topics.

M S Ramaiah University of Applied Sciences

M.S. Ramaiah University of Applied Sciences (MSRUAS), a premier state private university in Bengaluru, Karnataka, was established under the Karnataka University Act 2013 and is accredited with NAAC A+ in 2024. Recognized by the UGC and Government of Karnataka, the university's programs are approved by statutory bodies such as AICTE, NMC, PCI, and BCI. The university integrates academics, research, and innovation through its outcome-based curriculum and world-class infrastructure.

Indian Institute of Science

The Indian Institute of Science (IISc), founded in 1909 through the collaboration of Jamsetji Tata, the Mysore royal family, and the Government of India, is the country's premier institute for advanced research and education. Over the past century, it has balanced fundamental research with industrial and societal applications, attracting top faculty and students from around the world. Looking ahead, IISc aims to rank among the world's leading institutions by advancing interdisciplinary research, nurturing start-ups, and addressing global challenges such as climate change, healthcare, and renewable energy.

CSIR - National Aerospace Laboratories

CSIR-National Aerospace Laboratories (CSIR-NAL), established in 1959, is the only civilian government aerospace R&D laboratory in India. It focuses on advanced aerospace disciplines, boasting major facilities such as a 1.2 m trisonic wind tunnel and a full-scale fatigue test facility for fighter aircraft. Over the decades, it has made vital contributions to India's space and aerospace programmes, including wind-tunnel testing for vehicles like the HAL Tejas as well as acoustic qualification for satellites and launch vehicles.

The Aeronautical Society of India - Design Division

The AeSI Design Division was established in 2017 under the aegis of Aeronautical Society of India with a dedicated mission to advance aircraft design and related technologies in India. It is headquartered in Bangalore and actively engages engineers, scientists and students through workshops, seminars, design competitions and round-table technical discussions. The division also organizes the annual student competition National Aerospace Conceptual Design Competition (NACDeC) to promote systems-level and design thinking in the next generation of aerospace professionals.
